

Taste Sensation was a huge success in September with people coming from far and wide to taste and see what Trafford has on offer.

The event, which is organised annually by Trafford Council, attracted thousands of people to Altrincham Market to sample and buy food as well as be entertained by GI Jive and get involved in cake decorating plus much more!

Local producers, specialist food and drink retailers and community stalls together with Trafford restaurants took part in the event alongside this year's festival charities, Pictor School and Trafford Urology Dept, who used the day as a fundraiser offering as well as giving information and advice.

Just some of the comments from visitors on the day were:

Shirley Garner and her friends Geoff Keeling and Nicola Jenkinson

Shirley said: "We are really spoilt for choice. There's so much variety we don't know what to sample next!"

Lynne Jenkinson visited with Pauline Ruscoe and Chris Aulton and said: "It's absolutely fabulous! There's a real buzz and it's great to see so many different stalls and food and drink on offer."

Lei Zhao with her husband and children said: "This is the first time we've visited the event and it is really good for getting the local community together."
